Membership

Anyone working in the landscape design industry seeking to be an active member of the LDI can apply for membership. Applications are assessed on the skills and qualifications submitted. The Institute reserves the right to refuse membership to any person or company that does not meet its membership criteria.

There are opportunities to progress through different levels of membership from Student to Member, then to the Professional and Registered levels of membership.

LDI Membership Categories:

Student Members
Students enrolled in a course related to landscape design, landscape architecture, horticulture, or landscape construction.

Education Members
Educators teaching a course related to landscape design or landscape architecture

General Members
Practitioners working in the landscape design industry. This category includes, but is not exclusive to, landscape designers, horticulturists, arborists, building practitioners and engineers.

Professional Members
Members who have submitted a portfolio of landscape designs demonstrating the level of competency required as set out in the assessment criteria for this category.

Registered Members
Members who have submitted a portfolio of landscape designs demonstrating the level of competency required as set out in the assessment criteria for this category.

Affiliate Membership
Individuals or companies affiliated to the landscape design industry through the provision of goods or services.

Applications for all categories of membership are submitted through the LDI website.